Call Resolution Analysis

Key Findings

•High Overall Resolution Rate
•More than half of all calls (52.74%) were fully resolved at first contact. This reflects positively on the general capability of the call centre agents and the routing systems in place.
•Monday Morning Rush
•Call volumes peak on Mondays, especially during the 11:00 AM hour. This pattern suggests callers accumulate queries over the weekend and act on them at the start of the week.
•Midday is the Busiest Period
•The hours between 9:00 AM and 3:00 PM account for the bulk of daily call traffic. Staffing levels should be highest during this window to maintain service quality.
•DOF Handles the Most Calls — But Also Has High Unknown Outcomes
•While the Department of Finance receives the most calls overall, it also appears prominently in the failed calls analysis with 83.69% of its recorded failure-category calls falling under 'Unknown/Other'. This warrants a data quality and process review.
•Several Agencies Have Near-Total Unknown Resolution Rates
•Agencies like the NYC Comptroller (98.43%), CJC (98.34%), and NYSDOH (97.19%) show that almost all their failure-category calls fall under 'Unknown/Other'. This may indicate a logging or classification issue rather than actual service failure.
•3-1-1 Itself Has a 99.55% Unresolved Rate in the Failure Category
•The 3-1-1 Call Center entry in the unresolved table is notable — with 2,883 calls marked as unresolved at
•99.55% of their failure-category volume. This likely reflects calls that were not successfully routed.
•Weekend Staffing Opportunity
•Saturday and Sunday together account for roughly 500,000 calls — still a significant volume yet are likely staffed at reduced levels. Reviewing weekend capacity could improve service levels.

Recommendations

•Increase staffing between 9:00 AM and 3:00 PM on weekdays, especially Mondays, to handle peak call demand.
•Review the 'Unknown/Other' resolution category with agency heads it may reflect gaps in call logging rather than genuine service failures.
•Investigate the high unresolved rate at the 3-1-1 Call Center itself and address routing inefficiencies.
•Conduct a targeted review of DOF(Department of Finance), DOHMH(Department of Health and Mental Hygiene), and DCA(Department of Consumer Affairs), which lead both in call volume and in unclassified failure outcomes.
•Consider introducing self-service options (IVR or online) for high-frequency, repeatable query types to reduce call load.
•Review weekend and evening staffing models given that 500,000 calls arrive on Saturdays and Sundays.
•Implement stricter call resolution logging standards across agencies to reduce the 'Unknown/Other’ category in future datasets.
